

Employment Opportunities

Despite the obvious setbacks in the labor market, some companies are hiring to meet the ever changing demands of the way we shop and do business...

- Bozzuto's, a Cheshire-based grocery distributor, is looking to hire workers. Much of the work needed help involves manual labor. While there may be other jobs, the main focus is truck drivers and warehouse selector's, see link <http://careers.bozzutos.com/>
- CVS is planning to hire 50,000 full-time, part-time in temporary positions nationwide. CVS will also work with major clients such as Hilton and Marriott to fill open positions with furloughed workers. In addition to hiring new employees, CVS plans to launch new employee benefits, including childcare in additional paid sick time provisions, see link <https://cvshealth.com/>
- Amazon plans to hire 100,000 full-time and part-time employees across the country, singling out those laid off in the hospitality, restaurant in travel industries. Additionally, the company plans to invest more than $350 million worldwide to increase wages for hourly employees. In the United States, the race is expected to be an additional two dollars per hour, see link <https://www.amazon.jobs/en/>
- 7-Eleven announced last week that it plans to hire 20,000 employees nationwide to stock shelves, clean stores and meet a surge of mobile orders, see link <https://careers.7-eleven.com/careers/home>
