We present to you the Early Childhood Learning Center's class of 2017-18! The Center is a nationally accredited preschool with a therapeutic approach that helps children ages 3-5 acquire skills necessary to prepare them for kindergarten and beyond.

Dear friends,

If you know The Village, you know that we are always looking to the future — to do better, to do more, to embrace best practices and innovation...to help even more people in need.

We strive to achieve more because we know that, even in times of economic growth, families still struggle. We know that a full-time minimum-wage job isn't enough to pay rent, let alone support a family, and that toxic stress can interfere with a family's ability to support their children's social, emotional and academic development. We also know that mental illness can affect anyone at any time.

Our growth is rooted in the needs of our community. Our adult services clinic receives so many referrals that we've outgrown our space, and our new medication assisted treatment program is helping address the growing opioid epidemic. Our Aspire, Connect, Thrive (ACT) Academy at Rawson school in Hartford is demonstrating new ways to support students who have experienced trauma and help them be successful in school. This year, we are expanding our psychiatric residential treatment program for children, following the closing of a similar facility and addressing a critical need as emergency room visits are increasing in hospitals across the state.

Even as The Village grows and innovates, one thread weaves through all we do: helping children, adults and families make real and meaningful change.

Because the issues facing our clients are complex, our response is multi-faceted. We provide the service needed in the right place at the right time.

Of course, we can't do it alone. Our partners, volunteers, donors and amazing staff are the driving force behind our success. We are grateful for their — and your — support as we continue this life-changing work.

Learning

When Jasan lost his father, it kind of troubled him in school. The ACT Academy helped me to find answers and resources to help him with his behavior at home and school. ACT helped me become a stronger, more patient parent. It helped Jasan change his behavior — he's more respectful now to the teachers and students. If Jasan wasn't a part of ACT, I really wouldn't know what option I would have out there.

Brianna Burnam
Parent of Jasan Begley,
ACT Academy participant

When kids make poor choices in school, it affects their ability to learn, and that of their classmates. Addressing the root cause of the behavior is far more effective than punishing negative behavior. Trauma — from depression or addiction in the home, neighborhood violence or the constant stress of poverty — can limit a child's ability to engage in school. The ACT (Aspire, Connect, Thrive) Academy at Rawson STEAM School in Hartford is helping to address trauma school-wide. ACT provides trauma screening and treatment, play therapy and afterschool programming for students. Parents learn how to support their children socially, emotionally and academically. And teachers and administrative staff receive support to build a trauma-informed school environment. The goal is to improve students' resilience, academic performance, healthy behaviors and positive attitude in school and at home.

"When a student's world is in chaos, learning is not that student's priority. It is in our best interest as a community to remove those barriers to student success. What I've seen The Village do with the ACT Academy at Rawson school demonstrates that we can create trauma-informed school systems and environments that allow each student to pursue their highest potential."

Recovering

They gave me the tools I needed to change my outlook, and helped me understand my problems so I could make better decisions about my behavior. I could never have done it by myself. Now, I spend my time on positive things, like going to the gym and working on my business. I have a lot more hope about the future and what I can accomplish.

Rattanak Ouk
MAT program participant

There's no doubt, overcoming addiction is hard. Sometimes, behavioral therapy alone isn't enough. With opioid and heroin addiction on the rise across the country, behavioral health organizations are turning to medication assisted treatment (MAT) to improve outcomes for clients and patients facing drug and alcohol addiction. The Village has added a MAT program to its list of services for adults. The program includes prescriptions for medications that reduce cravings and withdrawal symptoms, individual and group therapy, ongoing drug screening, and recovery and employment coaches. The services work in combination to help recovering adults build the resilience they need to overcome addiction and maintain sobriety in the future.

"The Village is uniquely qualified to provide comprehensive MAT services for families, given its service continuum across the lifespan. The Village has proactively connected with many other providers and stakeholders in the greater Hartford community to facilitate referrals and work collaboratively to treat people in need."

Thriving

My life before KIDSAFE was hectic. I was stressed with anxiety, both my kids were misbehaving at school and I didn't know what to do. I started learning how to be more nurturing to my kids, which was really important to me. I am proud of myself and I'm happy that I get to pass something on to my kids so that they can pass something down to theirs, too. I was willing to change as a parent and learn and it really did help me. I don't know if I would have my kids today if I didn't, to be honest.

Shanthal Nichols
KIDSAFE Parenting Support
Services participant

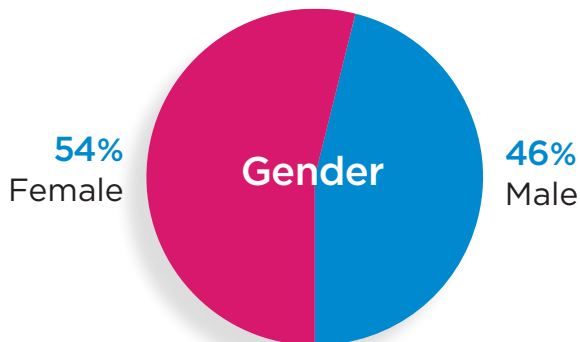

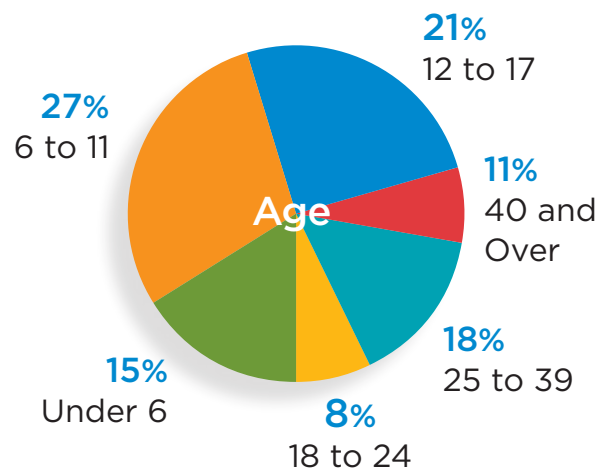

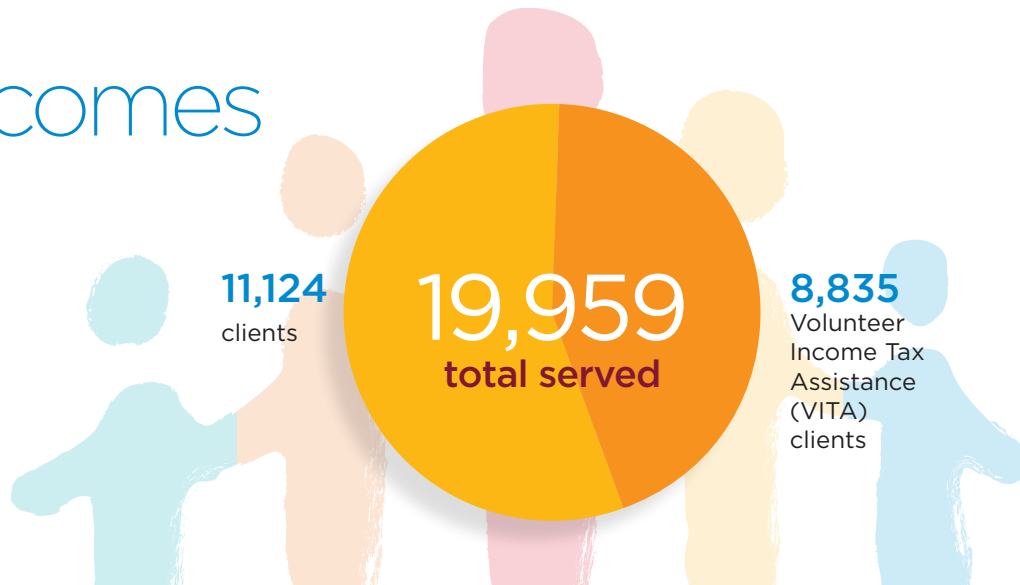

It's been said that parenting is the hardest job in the world. As fulfilling as it is, it's also stressful. When kids misbehave, refuse to listen to their parents or have angry outbursts, parents can feel at a loss. One way to support parents is to help them better understand the meaning behind their children's behaviors so they can respond with empathy and positive interventions. Parenting Support Services, a weekly in-home program of KIDSAFE CT, an affiliate of The Village in Vernon, does just that. Staff provide parents with strategies to manage problem behaviors, enhance parent-child relationships and create a safe and nurturing environment where their children can thrive. Parents gain the skills they need to address future challenges and help their children grow stronger and more independent.

"KIDSAFE is our partner in strengthening parents and family relationships. This directly and positively impacts the well-being of children in our community, which is critical to the success and sustainability of our Town."

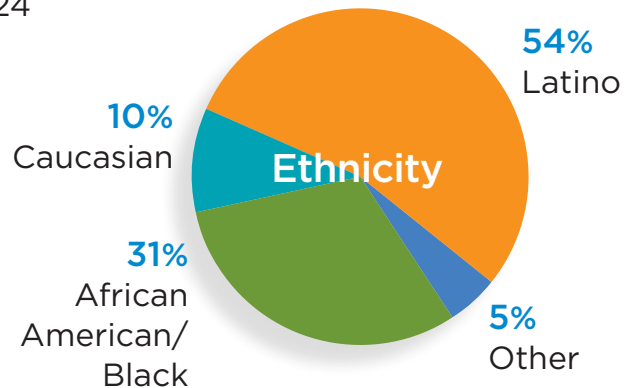

Daniel A. Champagne
Mayor, Town of Vernon

A Passion for Cars and Helping Kids

On a rainy Monday morning, Jerry Bundy stopped by his office at Bundy Motors in Tolland before heading out to pick up a car from a longtime friend and customer. Jerry doesn't own the shop anymore — he's retired after 38 years there and 60 in the automotive industry. But now he combines his two passions: cars and raising money for child abuse prevention programs.

After raising a million dollars for KIDSAFE CT, an affiliate of The Village, through the KARS for KIDS program, Jerry is now “on his second million.” He accepts donated cars, boats, campers and motorcycles and does whatever is needed to make them safe and sellable — with all of the profits supporting programs provided by KIDSAFE. He'll pick up or tow a car to the shop if needed, the shop mechanics do a full safety check and fix what's needed (brakes, lights, etc.), then Jerry sells it.

After raising a million dollars for KIDSAFE through KARS for KIDS, Jerry is now “on his second million.”

It all started in 1981 when he joined the Exchange Club of Rockville and learned about plans for a new program for children and families called KIDSAFE. The Exchange Club president asked for a volunteer to help lead the effort and Jerry found himself raising his hand. He called upon his many friends, colleagues and business connections to help get the new organization up and running.

KIDSAFE is now a thriving community-based organization dedicated to early intervention, prevention, and treatment of child abuse and neglect. Its mission is to “partner with the community to educate and empower families and promote the well-being of young people.”

Jerry stayed involved all these years because of the “stories he heard about the parents who were helped” by KIDSAFE and “how appreciative they were.” A lifelong car enthusiast, Jerry was often attending — and winning — awards at car shows across the country. At a car show in Boca Raton, he learned that they made $9 million in one weekend. He said to his friend, Gordon, shop manager of Bundy Motors and another

Jerry lives and breathes KIDSAFE. I really think that's what's keeping him young and motivated.

President,
Exchange Club

person dedicated to KIDSAFE (as most of Jerry's friends are), "If they can make $9 million, we can make $9,000 — for KIDSAFE." So they came home and pitched the idea to their friends. Long story short, they organized the first Car Show for KIDSAFE and raised $9,000. And held it every year since (for eight years), raising nearly $100,000.

Jerry's life is about cars, friends, family and KIDSAFE. And there is little that separates them. The result is that more children and families in the community have the help they need to be safe, stable and healthy.

Leadership Giving (2017-18)

Support means many things here at The Village. Caregivers support their families financially, socially and emotionally. We support children, adults and families as they work to make real and meaningful change in their lives. Individuals, organizations, corporations, foundations and governmental agencies support our work by donating their time, talent and treasure. To each of you, we say THANK YOU! It means so much to the staff – and to the children and families we serve – to know that you are there to support us.

A strong endowment is a critical component of an institution’s financial strength. Funds established in support of The Village’s endowment provide program support for the families we serve today and for future generations. The volunteer-run Auxiliaries of The Village have been supporting programs that help transform the lives of children and families for over 60 years.

This year, the Glastonbury, Simsbury and Suffield Auxiliaries contributed more than $279,000 to The Village. Since their creation, the three Auxiliaries have contributed a total of more than $5.5 million to our organization.

With The Village's help, I was able to advocate and receive important school resources for my daughter. They were helpful, knowledgeable and willing to go the extra mile to be sure we found success.

- Client in our Child First program, which helps reduce the impact toxic stress can have on a child's development by strengthening parent-child relationships and addressing families' basic needs

they love my child.*

- Parent of a child participating in our Early Childhood Learning Center
